

Dear Friends

This Sunday starts Catholic Schools Week. Catholic Schools Week began in 1974 as a way to stress the importance of Catholic education and the benefits it provides to students, families, and society. The mission of Catholic schools is not just an excellent education. Catholic Schools, including Bishop Hoffman Catholic School, strive to develop the whole young person - intellectually, spiritually, emotionally, and physically. At the heart of Catholic education is the belief that faith and learning go hand in hand. Catholic schools are dedicated to nurturing an atmosphere where students can grow in their relationship with God, deepen their understanding of Catholic teachings, and integrate faith into every aspect of their lives. Religion classes, Masses, retreats, and daily prayer all play an important role in this process. As Catholics, we stress importance of serving others, especially those less fortunate than we are. That's why service projects are part of our school. Service projects help students develop a sense of responsibility and compassion.

We know, at Sacred Heart, that the school needs to be kept as a valued ministry of the parish and an essential part of the parish's mission – forming disciples of Christ. The school and the parish's other programs should complement and reinforce each other as much as possible.

The parish helps financially support the operation of a school. I would like to thank you for your generous contributions sent to support Sacred Heart ministries with BHCS being one of them.

To the Parents of BHCS - it is important for parishioners to see you and your children attending Mass weekly with our community, and investing yourself personally in our parish community life. This strengthens the bond between school and parish and makes the faith visible.

Thank you very much for supporting our school and may God bless you all.
